

MPB479 : Project and Portfolio VII: Music Production

The Project and Portfolio VII: Music Production course combines hands-on learning experiences with summative and formative portfolio assessments. In this course, students will conceptualize, produce, document, and notate a project focus of their choice to demonstrate their artistry and technical abilities in their desired career path. Project options include producing a song as an independent artist, composing and submitting library tracks, composing music for a game by collaborating with a game-design team, composing a film soundtrack, and composing music for an advertising campaign.
