

SIM4819 : Simulation Production

The Simulation Production course incorporates the math and programming concepts of earlier courses with the fabrication, electronic, and simulation software skills to enable students to participate in the development of a simulation project.

Credits 3