GRD4411 : Interactive Editorial Design

The Interactive Editorial Design course teaches students to combine theories and skills taught in previous courses with usability concepts in order to lay out information across multiple types of media. Students will explore how designs translate between print and interactive media.

Credits 4