

DEV1424 : Emerging Interface Design

The Emerging Interface Design course focuses on the industry-standard tools used to create the visual elements of user interfaces for varying screen sizes and devices. Students in this course will identify common design elements and the techniques used to create these elements. Applying the concepts and techniques learned in this course will increase students' ability to design intuitive, user-friendly interfaces.

Credits 3