MDV228 : Project and Portfolio II: Mobile Development

The Project and Portfolio II: Mobile Development course combines hands-on learning experiences with summative and formative portfolio assessments. This course synthesizes usability, programming, and design techniques to enable students to design and build an interactive application. These applications will allow users to traverse and display dynamic content deployed to a targeted device.

Credits 3