

MDV3853 : Android Development II

In the Android Development II course, students will design and generate intermediate user interface structures that can be deployed to an emulator or Android device. They will create and use content databases to support their application deployment.

Credits 3