UXP4901 : UX Production

The UX Production course will provide students with a selection of products that feature existing UX/ UI issues to be resolved. In this course, students will plan, design, and execute targeted prototypes to address those known problematic points. The course will follow a structured problem-solving process to identify a user experience problem, design a solution, and prototype that solution. Finally, students will evaluate the effectiveness of their prototype.

Credits 3