

DGT363 : Editing Digital Video

The Editing Digital Video course covers the art and science of nonlinear editing. In this course, students will learn how editing choices impact the way a project will be perceived and ultimately influence its success. Students will be introduced to the advanced concepts of imaging and editing, as well as the production model of editing video in the industry. Students will also participate in group discussions about editing choices and audience considerations.

Credits 3