

GDN4003 : Systems Progression

The Systems Progression course builds on students'™ knowledge gained in organizing and manipulating data as well as quantitative measurement. They will model change in a progression system framework over time. In issuing changes to this model, students will identify how game balance and dynamics are affected and observe the results of design changes across complex systems.

Credits 3