

CWR155 : Project I: Creative Writing

In the Project I: Creative Writing course, students will apply knowledge of character creation, plot development, story structure, and visual storytelling to create a collection of written work. Students will examine the current media landscape to identify high-demand skill sets. Additionally, they will utilize tools of revision, editing, word economy, industry-standard formatting guidelines, and software to create a portfolio project plan to demonstrate the range of content they developed.
