

DIG3100 : Graphic Web Design

The Graphic Web Design course examines the process of creating exciting, functional content for the web. Students will expand on the design skills that they have learned throughout the degree program. They will gain understanding of HTML and web standards as they learn how to create, edit, manage, and design a professional website within a web-authoring tool and complementary software applications.

Credits 4