

IEP097 : Listening and Speaking 4

In Listening and Speaking 4, students will learn and discuss the role of art, communication, and media in American society, building upon the English language listening, speaking, vocabulary, and writing skills learned in prior courses. This course examines the core components of creative expression, offering students insight and instruction on listening and speaking through presentations, class debate, and critical thinking. Students will also exercise advanced listening, writing, and vocabulary skills in preparation for the online Accuplacer exam taken at the conclusion of the program.

Credits 2