

REC4735 : Advanced Session Recording

The Advanced Session Recording course provides extensive education in the theory, philosophy, and practice of contemporary music production in world-class studio facilities. Emphasis is placed on how to conduct a music session and work with a band in a studio setting. Students will expand their knowledge of studio signal flow, recording techniques, and synchronization. Students will utilize current audio recording technology to gain further expertise in the art and science of music production.

Credits 4