SDV4719 : Software Integration

The Software Integration course focuses on application testing, release, and maintenance. Students will utilize various tools and methodologies to test their software applications, including static and dynamic analysis. Students will also beta test real-world usability and practice response execution. Attention will be focused on product security, usability, assessment, debugging, and increased functionality.

Credits 3